

Troy Minerals Expands Table Mountain Silica Project

Vancouver, B.C. – January 30, 2025 - Troy Minerals Inc. ("Troy" or the "Company") (CSE: TROY; OTCQB: TROYF; FSE: VJ3) announces the expansion of its Table Mountain Silica Project, located in the highly prospective silica-rich region near Golden, British Columbia, through the direct staking of two additional mineral claims totaling 606 hectares contiguous to the existing property.

"This strategic expansion solidifies the Company's title holdings and enhances our position in a rapidly growing area recognized for its potential in the high purity silica of the Mount Wilson Formation," stated Yannis Tsitos, President of Troy Minerals. "The expansion of the Table Mountain Project marks one more significant milestone in our growth strategy. As the global market for high-purity silica continues to grow, Troy is well-positioned to play an important role in this critical mineral sector."

The Table Mountain Silica Project now comprises 2,304 hectares. The newly acquired claims are accessible through existing infrastructure and cover strategic land adjacent to the existing Table Mountain claims (see Figure 1 below)

About the Table Mountain Project

The Table Mountain Silica Project is located 4 kilometres east of Golden, B.C., Canada, with excellent year-round access and proximity to the Canadian Pacific Railway Golden Rail Yard. The property hosts up to 10 kilometers of regionally mapped strike length of the Mount Wilson Formation, with apparent widths ranging from 300 to 1,400 metres at surface. The project is strategically positioned near both the Moberly Silica Mine and Sinova Quartz silica quarry, which exhibit economic grade silica greater than 99.6% SiO₂ purity.
